“ Bob was a friendly and talented man. If he couldn't fix it...it probably couldn't be fixed. He was the type of man that just made you feel good to be in his presents and would talk to you like he has known you forever. I think the fish feared him because he would never come home empty handed, but you would if you fished with him because he would catch all the fish. He was the only one that could convince me that cleaning fish was fun...and it was for only listening to his stories as the work was being done made it fun. His family is a direct reflection of Bob, they are warm, friendly and always willing to help out with words, deeds, and just being there.

My heart and prayers go out of all the Hegler family. Curt (and Korina) Tucker
